WILSON AT THE FART.

In London, when the sun was low, And William Wilson dressed to go To that banquet, dowerhouse, But feelings surged tumultuously.

But England saw another theft: Her furnace fires were burning bright, And mists were running dry and slight.

Thanks to Free-trade Democracy, And brighter yet will burn those fires, While labor here still obeys hire, And Democratic campaign fires Tell of our great progress.

KNOCKED OUT

Are Mr. Simonson's Lawyers On Every Question.

Pennsylvania Gazette.

Some very important motions in the Simonson divorce suit came up before Judge Harrison last Friday and Saturday, and resulted in Mr. Simonson's lawyers being knocked out on every question under argument. Not a single point was decided in their favor. Zack Phelps of Louisville and E. L. Worthington of Mayville were Mr. Simonson's lawyers from a distance, and it seems they took their attorneys for hayseeds, and were fooled.

A motion was made by the wife's attorneys asking an allowance of $300 per month and $1,000 for expenses pending trial. The court allowed $175 per month from the time the suit was filed until the next January term of court, and $500 for suit money, which he directed to be placed in the hands of a Trustee. Mr. Simonson's lawyers then asked that the injunction which was granted some time ago, giving the wife's suit her priority of trial over the husband's suit at Louisville, be dissolved. This was refused.

At the Circuit Clerk's office there are several large volumes of depositions, filed by the husband's attorneys, containing some of the most sensational and racy testimony ever put on record there. In them there is a full record for a dozen years, and the old bachelors, middle-aged bachelors and young bachelors—besides the married men—have been climbing over the top of one another in their efforts to get to read them. A motion was made by the wife's attorneys to have the testimony squashed on some technicality, which was done. This will necessitate taking them all over again. All the questions will be taken to the Court of Appeals, except the last.

Mrs. H. Duke Watson's Reception a Grand Success Last Evening.

Those who were fortunate enough to have an invitation to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Duke Watson last evening to attend the reception given in honor of Miss Evaline Eastland of Danville, Miss Lulu Thompson of Paris and Miss Lizzie Jefferson of Lexington, Miss Jessie Peed's guests, were well repaid for their loss of repose.

Some twelve couple responded to the invitations, and they thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

There was music to dance by from the Mayville Orchestra, and those who were interested in dancing took advantage of the sweet strains and tripped the light fantastic until the music ceased.

At midnight the guests were invited into the dining-room, and there they were introduced to a regular old-time repast, which they also enjoyed.

It was early this morning before they could find time to leave the hospitable home and content themselves with the short time they had been there.

Mrs. Watson's two daughters, Miss Maggie Duke and Miss Willie, helped to receive, at which they are no strangers by any means.

Tonight the same party will pass away a few hours very pleasantly with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Peed of East Third street, where another good time awaits them.

The hull of the steamboat Alice Dean, burned by General John Morgan July 8th, 1863, near Brandenburg, now lies in plain sight on the bar, about a quarter of a mile below that town. The Alice Dean belonged to the Cincinnati and Memphis & Parker Company, and was commanded by Captain Pepper. When General Morgan and his 5,000 troops reached the Ohio river on his raid into Indiana and Ohio, he captured the Alice Dean and the John T. McComb, the latter boat commanded by Captain Aaron Dillard, and compelled the officers to ferry his men over to Indiana.

RIVER AND RAIL.

What is Being Done on Our Two Great Highways.

River continues to decline here, with no prospect of a rise anywise soon.

The steamer Natches went into New Orleans Monday with 3,800 bales of cotton.

There are large quantities of coal tied up in the pools at Pittsburgh awaiting another rise.

The Big Sandy river is the next thing to dried up. Navigation has been suspended for some time.

The river is stationary at headwaters, with a light rain Monday, which will probably keep the river at its present stage there for a day or two.

The Louisville Division of the Pennsylvania is moving large quantities of tobacco from Louisville North and East, and business has improved considerably on this account.

The lumber for the construction of the new cabin on the Silver Wave was shipped from Cincinnati on the Carrollton yesterday from Strider avenue to Augusta, the Silver Wave being repaired and remodeled at that point.

The Pennsylvania shops are now running on full time at all points and the rolling stock is being placed in good condition. The company has also given order to place the roadbed in good shape for fall traffic, which promises to be unusually heavy.

The Katie Schockdale has been boarded up and converted into a large dance hall at Pittsburgh, and will be used for that purpose until the excursion season opens next summer. She has been permanently withdrawn from the Cincinnati and Pittsburgh trade.

Nearly all the members of the American Railway Union in Louisville have dropped out of that organization. The A. R. U. never was strong there, and the few members who were in the order were forced out. The other orders of trainmen are as strong as ever.

It is said the Ohio Falls Car Company will make little, if anything, on the 1,000 cars it is now building for the Pennsylvania Company. The cars are taken so low that the company is obliged to get labor very cheap in order to come out even, and laboring men are working at the rate of nine cents an hour.

The contractors on the Louisville and Jeffersonville Bridge announce that the work will be completed long before the first of January, the time set for its completion. So far no intimation has been given when the railroads in the deal with this bridge will begin running over the line, but the officers of the company seem confident of doing a good business as soon as the structure is completed. It is more than probable that the Big Four will be running over this bridge early in 1895.

Germany is very far advanced in the application of electricity, but they have had to come to this country for the best system of train lighting. W. S. Morris, Superintendent of Motive Power of the C. and O., has been called upon by electricians in Germany for a statement of cost of lighting the F. & V. Limited and Washington Fast Line trains on that road, with storage of electricity.

The C. and O. is the only road lighting its trains with the storage system of electricity, and it has proved so successful that the attention of the world has been attracted to them.

The hull of the steamboat Alice Dean, burned by General John Morgan July 8th, 1863, near Brandenburg, now lies in plain sight on the bar, about a quarter of a mile below that town. The Alice Dean belonged to the Cincinnati and Memphis & Parker Company, and was commanded by Captain Pepper. When General Morgan and his 5,000 troops reached the Ohio river on his raid into Indiana and Ohio, he captured the Alice Dean and the John T. McComb, the latter boat commanded by Captain Aaron Dillard, and compelled the officers to ferry his men over to Indiana.

It was a great idea of the Democratic Free-traders in Congress to put all nursery stock on the free list and take from it the 35 per cent. ad valorem protection that was given to American nurserymen under the McKinley Tariff. But the Democrats failed to destroy our truck farms, so why not another important branch of agriculture?

The Gorman Tariff Bill places all "plants, trees, shrubs and vines" on the free list. The Wilson Bill did the same. The Mills Bill would have done the same had it become law. It is a regular and fast plan of the Democratic party to injure the American nurserymen. Now that Canadian and European stock can come in here and be sold in our markets free of duty, there will be less American stock sold and it must also be sold cheaper in order to meet the foreign competition.

Why send American gold to buy of foreigners any product which our own farmers can sufficiently supply? Why import any foreign manufactures of which our own operatives can supply all we need? Our laws properly exclude Chinese laborers and we talk of restricting other foreign labor immigration in order to save our own industries laboring people from the ruin of alien competition. But the importation of the products of such foreign labor in competition with our own is even more disastrous to our industries than would be the presence here of the competing laborers. The imported products take from American citizens the labor of productiveness as fully as would imported foreign labor. With the laborers here they would make a market for some of our farm products and make a demand for homes in which to reside. When we import foreign wool we have that as perishable wealth, the foreigners have our gold in exchange, imperishable wealth. When we produce the wool here we have the wool and the gold both and a prosperous people besides. Our people should have American wools and the whole American market for their products.

THERE are 50,000 people employed in American nurseries, which occupy 175,000 acres of land. In all there are 43,000 nurseries, each covering nearly 400 acres of ground. The value of these nurseries is $42,000,000, nearly $100,000 for each nursery. The total invested capital is $22,500,000, or $113,000 per nursery. It was a great Democratic idea to try and destroy this important industry by putting all nursery stocks on the free list.

A COUPLE of weeks ago The American Economist drew attention to the efforts made by the Democratic Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. CARLISLE, to give every possible advantage to the foreign manufacturer by his rulings on the ambiguous verbiage in the Gorman Tariff Bill. These rulings were anxiously waited for in Europe. They cost the United States Treasury "a trifle of two millions sterling"—no small sum to pay for a principle. So we are informed by an English contemporary. But it is doubtful if we are paying this $10,000,000 "for a principle." It is not for the violation of a principle? Here is what The Glasgow Herald of August 29th said:

"It is now decided on the responsibility of Secretary CARLISLE that all goods in bond now to be free-listed can be admitted free as soon as the bill becomes law. This is but consistent with the other ruling to which we called attention at the time, that goods now in bond coming under reduced scales by the new Tariff shall pay these reduced rates and not the McKinley rates. It did not seem reasonable to make fish of one set of goods and flesh of another set. Yet the amended opinion of the Treasury will, it is said, cost a trifle of two millions sterling—no small sum to pay for a principle. This money will not, however, be thrown away, for the admission of such a body of cheap material is expected to have an immediately revivifying influence upon certain industries."

How great is the contrast between this Democratic official's bestowal of favors to foreigners and his treatment of the Louisiana sugar planters. He could not distort the ambiguous verbiage of the Democratic Tariff Bill into any such ruling as will compel the United States Government to pay its honest obligations to American citizens. But he can do so to pay "a trifle of two millions sterling" to foreigners. It comes high to pay for a Democratic "principle."

The summary of the registration has been completed in eight of the twelve wards of Louisville. The total registered vote in the eight wards is 22,457. The Democratic registration was 13,750, and the Republican 8,677, which is a great gain for the Republicans.

The Dispensary Law, He Says,
Has Come to Stay.

No Resistance Will Be Tolerated for He Has a Force of 2,000 Men.

Town People Have Nothing to Gain and Everything to Lose When Municipal Officers Fail to Co-operate the Corporation Will Get No Profit.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 10.—Gov. Tillman declared in an interview Tuesday that "constables will go to work and search all places where they have reason to know that liquors are kept, and that private residences will not be exempt when they are made depots for the storage of whiskey."

He says the town people have nothing to gain and everything to lose by their opposition to the enforcement of the dispensary law. In case mayors and the police fail to co-operate with the constables, the governor says, such municipalities will receive no share of the profits, and the legislature will likely institute police systems in them under control of the state. Trial justices and the legislature will likely institute police systems in them under control of the state. Trial justices and the legislature will likely institute police systems in them under control of the state.

The governor concluded by saying: "The law has come to stay, and the sooner that fact is recognized by the whiskey men and those who have opposed it, the better it will be for all concerned."

No resistance will be tolerated, he says, for he has 2,000 men he can concentrate at any point in 48 hours to carry out the law.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 10.—Robin Smith, a Negro, made an attempt to assault Annie, the 15-year-old daughter of A. J. Martin, a prominent and well-to-do farmer living near Greensboro, Monday night. A posse was organized and the Negro was captured Tuesday night. Excitement is running high, and he may be lynched in a few hours.

The strikers halted and began throwing stones at the police. Finally two pistol shots were fired from the mob, and the police, firing their revolvers into the air, charged into the crowd, which scattered. No arrests were made.
